

Take part with Liverpool Philharmonic

Music Mondays

Enjoy. Discuss. Connect.

Music Mondays are regular free music sessions led by composer Ian, a musician from Liverpool Philharmonic.

Music Mondays are open to anyone accessing support through their GP or Link Worker, as part of our Social Prescribing programme. You are welcome to come to any or all of the sessions.

Join us in learning, listening and connecting with others; in an informal, friendly environment. No prior musical knowledge is needed.

You are welcome to bring a friend, family member or carer with you to each session- the more the merrier!

There are two sessions on each date at 10.15am and 11.30am. Each session lasts 45 minutes.

Monday 8th

All events will take place at the Music Room, Liverpool Philharmonic Hall.

To book for sessions, please speak to you Link Worker or GP to make a referral.

Entrance to the Music Room is situated on the corner of Myrtle Street and Sugnall Street – at the rear of Liverpool Philharmonic Hall.

Please note that from 1 September, in line with current government guidance, seating within The Hall and Music Room will return to normal configurations, with no social distancing in place and that entry to all events, ticketholders aged 18 and over (unless medically exempt), will need to demonstrate on arrival at the venue proof of COVID-19 status. More details of this can be found on our website: www.liverpoolphil.com/plan-your-visit/entry-requirements/

If you have any questions about the programme,
